

COURSE REGISTRATION GUIDE

Course registration is governed by the current Schedule of the Academic Year, which specifies the period during which students may register for courses in the Study Information System (SIS). Registration for the winter semester usually takes place during the final week of September, while registration for the summer semester takes place between semesters, usually at the beginning of February.

Courses may be viewed in SIS before the official registration period begins. During the registration period, students may register for courses and modify their selections. Once the registration period has ended, course registration in SIS closes and students' course selections become binding.

Students register for compulsory and required/elective courses according to the electronic study plan for their programme. (Students who began their studies at the Protestant Theological Faculty in the 2024/25 academic year or earlier register for courses according to the study plan published on the faculty website under For Current Bachelor's Students.) Students also register for optional courses that interest them in order to obtain the number of credits required by their study programme.

After the registration period has ended, students may cancel their registration for a course within three weeks of the beginning of classes (in accordance with the Rules for the Organisation of Studies at the Protestant Theological Faculty Art. 5/2). To cancel a course registration, students must contact the administrator of the English-language study programme.

Each course has its own unique code:

The beginning of the code indicates the study programme:

RET – Protestant Theology in Czech, but some courses also in English

RT – Theology of Christian Traditions

RPT – Protestant Theology in English

RP – Social and Pastoral Work

RDI – Community Crises and Pastoral Work - Diaconics

An additional letter in the code has a specific meaning:

K = combined mode of study

D = distance-learning course

A = course taught in English

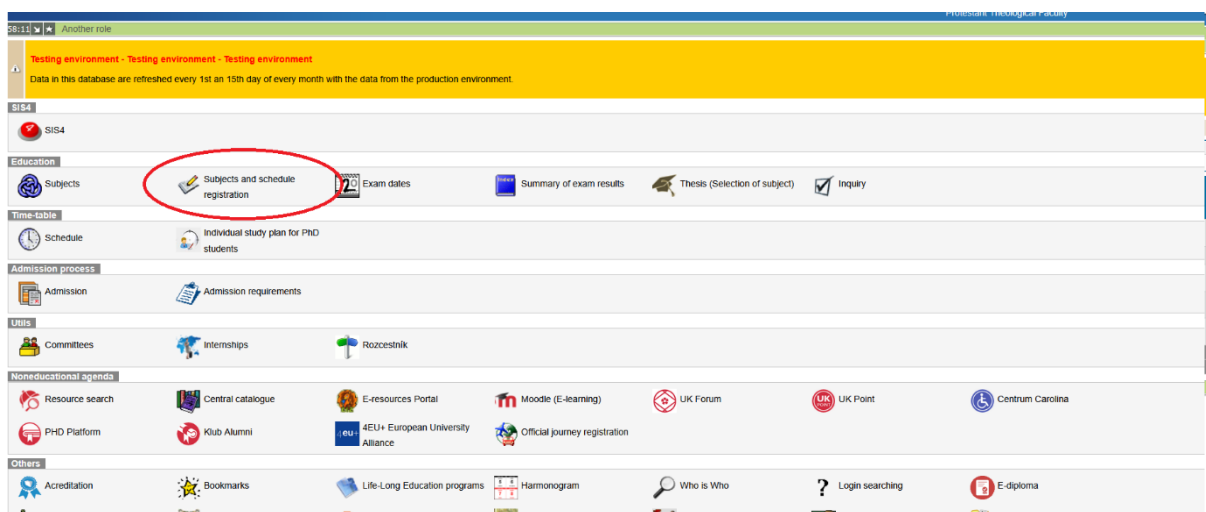

N = new accreditation

Two tips before registering for courses

- Check your electronic study plan in SIS, where you can see the overall structure of your studies and all the courses you are required or may choose to take (with codes beginning RPTxxx).
- You can view all courses taught in English at the Protestant Theological Faculty (or another faculty of Charles University) by clicking the Subjects icon and selecting English from the Language menu. All courses taught in English will then be displayed.
